

New Advertising Shelters in Concord

The advertising shelters being installed in Concord were paid for with a Lifeline Bus Stop Access Grant. The City chose the design, Tolar (a California company) provided the shelters, Diablo Engineering provided project management, and installation was done by Outfront Media.

Seven new bus shelters are being installed. In many cases concrete pads were poured to make the location ADA accessible. The total project cost is near $20,000 per shelter. All shelters will look the sample shown below and have solar lighting.
